12:00pm-1:00pm
Erik Castro is an award-winning photojournalist based in Santa Rosa, California; his print media clients include the San Francisco Chronicle, the Press Democrat, Sonoma Magazine, and the Seattle Weekly. Castro has a long-standing interest in photography’s power to humanize and bring visibility to complex social issues. His Harvester series focuses on the workers of Sonoma County’s vineyards: each image is a portrait of a grape harvest worker who has agreed to be photographed out in the field, in the moments after they complete a day’s shift. Meet The HUB staff in front of the Student Center at 11:45am so we can walk to the art gallery and enjoy this exhibit in comunidad. Please email thehub@sonoma.edu for more information, questions or accommodations. You can visit the University Art Gallery to learn more about the art featured in the exhibit.

The HUB Cultural Center | 2nd floor of the Student Center
At The HUB Cultural Center, we work to transform the dynamics that alienate, disempower, degrade, and destroy. We foster connection and meaningful conversation between students, staff, and faculty to build community within and between cultures, and across different worldviews. We welcome the SSU community to visit our center, meet our team, and join us in our mission to create a more inclusive campus.
